Introduction

PART I: STRUCTURES OF MOBILIZATION

Becoming 'Progressive': Structural Settings and Mental Mapping of Reformism

 Bringing Up a New Generation of Intelligentsia
 Transfer of the Italian Technology of Modernization and Birth of the Russian 'Public Agronomy' Project

PART II: DYNAMICS OF MODERNIZATION

The Ambivalent Role of the State: A Conservative Patron and a "Progressive" Rival

The Economic Foundations of Social Mobilization

From Knowledge to Influence: Building a Bridge to the New Peasant

At the Crossroads: Coping with Modernization as Routine

PART III: PATTERNS OF 'NATIONALIZATION'

Nation as Motherland

Nation as the People

Revolutionary Nation

The Dissolution of the 'Imagined Community': Nationalization as Expropriation

Postscript